Live Betting Bets of this type are made on events that have already started.

In this case, you need to be able to react quickly to such changes.

This will allow you to bet on particularly favorable odds.

But there will be very little time for reflection.

You need to react quickly.

Line (Prematch) A classic option for betting.

In this section you will find future events that are scheduled for the coming hours, days and even weeks.

You will have time to think everything through.

Assess the risks and potential benefits, determine the prospects, analyze the statistics and the results, and only then place your bet.

Types of Bets You can select one of the three types of bets after adding at least one outcome to the betting slip.

You can only do this before you confirm the bet.

Once you have completed a prediction, you will not be able to return to selecting the type of outcome.

Single To make a single bet, you only need to add one outcome to your betting slip.

If the prediction turns out to be correct, you will get a payout. If not, you lose.

Single bets are the least risky, but their odds are also relatively low.

System Bet in multiple parlays.

The amount will be split evenly between them.

With that, you don't need to guess all the outcomes of the selected ones to make a payout.

A system is the best way to balance risk and potential rewards.

Express The riskiest type of bet, which also offers the highest payout potential.

A parlay consists of two or more outcomes.

The odds of each of them are multiplied by each other.

This forms a rather large final odds.

But to win a bet, each outcome must be correctly specified.

One mistake will lead to a loss.

Click on it to add it to the betting slip; Complete the bet.

You need to specify the amount and type of bet in the coupon.
