Extreme heat began to reach the USA, delivered by a climatic standard of high pressure that the federal center 0 says "potentially longer betano code 300 decades for some localities".

According to meteorologists from WeatherBELL Analytics, about 265 million 0 in the USA must see the temperatures of the air reach or exceed 90F (32C), and many of them experiment with thermodynamic betano code 300 0 tournament from 105 F until next Sunday.

The system, a ridge of high level with high pressure is expected for 0 to bring temperature records in the 90s and beyond. Some areas will experiment with temperature as high as 105F or 25 degrees above 0 the normal index 1

The cities that will be reached by the wave of heat include Chicago, St Louis ; Indianapolis (USA), Detroit 0 - Cleveland – Cincinnati: Pittsburgh Philadelphia and Boston.

The wave of heat forecast is caused by a thermal dome - cumes 0 of high pressure that traps the air betano code 300 warming below and blocks other climatic systems more amenable – with intensity 0 in the Ohio valley, in the lower Great Lakes.

Even betano code 300 states amenable, as meteorologists from Maine said that they expect temperatures 0 minimum record during the day and high daily until the 90s.

The national meteorological service betano code 300 Caribou, Maine 0 said that the temperatures will rise "under a system of unusually high level high pressure" and "several days with records breaking 0 temperature will lead to hot dangerous without a chance for rest during the night".

The meteorologists betano code 300 Boston say that the 0 temperatures will reach 100F "defying all records of height for the month of June".

The Centers for Disease Control (CDC) 0 and the National Meteorological Service introduced recently a system "HeatRisk" based betano code 300 numerical cores to provide an orientation about risks 0 to decision makers.

The index betano code 300 consideration of how unusual is the temperature of heat for the era, duration of 0 the same including daily and nighttime temperatures; if these high pressures represent a high risk.

The index is flashing a 0 magenta-colored "extreme" risk levels for health that are moving from the west center and Ohio valley to the northeast during 0 the middle of the week.

"This level of extreme heat rare and/or long period, with little or no relief during the night affects 0 any person without effective cooling. Impacts likely in most systems medical industries sensitive to warming - infrastructure", warns 0 the index
